Coqui Water Park
at El Conquistador Resort

Coqui Water Park, the first water park ever to sit along the Caribbean Sea and overlook the Atlantic Ocean. Mind-blowing vertical drops and high-speed flume slides will bring non-stop fun to guests of all ages, and levels of excitement never before seen in Puerto Rico. Located at Marina Village, the 2.4-acre Coqui Water Park fuses youthful energy with imagination for the ultimate family fun environment. Coqui Water Park was inspired by the resort's neighboring El Yunque Rainforest, home to Puerto Rico's beloved Coqui tree frog, and delivers an adventurous jungle experience, including waterfalls, rapids, a jungle rope bridge and more.

COQUI WATER PARK

At 60 feet tall and named after El Yunque's God of Good, the iconic Torre de Yocahu, the water park's main tower, majestically overlooks the Caribbean Sea and offers park-goers a choice of three high-speed water slides. All slides have a 48" height restriction.

The complex La Mina Lazy River, named after the mines of El Yunque, is 800 linear feet long and contains more than 180,000 gallons of water. The never-ending La Mina river loop allows sun-soaked guests to continually float along without ever having to get off their inner tubes or out of the water.

El Gigante Dormido – Meaning sleeping giant, this vertical, speed slide brings a shocking and powerful thrill to those willing to experience its intense 40-foot drop.

Coqui Water Park guests will also have access to an expansive, 25,554-square-foot sunbathing deck, and the 9,000-square-foot infinity edge pool. Hungry? Don't forget to grab a bite to eat at Oasis Bar & Grill.

Marohu – In honor of the legendary Taino God of Clear Weather, Marohu delivers a 26-foot, extreme one- or two-person inner tube ride twisting downhill where riders are propelled into the deep pool below.

The Coqui kids slide brings junior thrill seekers their own waterlogged, pint-size fun; slide has a 38" height restriction.

Huracán – Inspired by the water, wind and speed of hurricanes, this ferocious, serpentine body slide surprises riders with 26 feet of intense curves and velocity.

Looking for fun toys or that special souvenir? Don't forget to purchase your official Coqui Water Park merchandise including beach balls, floats, backpacks, and more!
